

MARKETING

Marketing serves as the bridge between organizations and consumers. As a marketing major, you will gain insights into customer needs and preferences, utilizing this knowledge to formulate effective marketing strategies that contribute to organizational success. The curriculum will include an in-depth study of consumer behavior, strategic marketing development, and data analysis for informed decision-making. Course topics encompass product management, pricing strategies, promotional activities, and distribution decisions. Additionally, professional B2B sales techniques are covered, with supplementary courses focused on managing sales teams and leveraging sales technology. For those interested in business consulting, specialized courses are also available.

Undergraduate Major in Marketing

For undergraduate curriculum in business, major in marketing.

The Department of Marketing offers a major in marketing. Students will complete the general education requirements (including business foundation courses), supporting courses/major prerequisites, business core requirements for the Bachelor of Science (B.S.) degree, and 18 additional credits in the major.

The instructional objective of the Marketing major is to provide knowledge of the marketing process and an understanding of its functions. Students are expected to develop decision-making skills, computational skills, and communication skills with appreciation for global marketplace and ethical concerns.

For more information on the undergraduate major in Marketing, please visit: <https://www.ivybusiness.iastate.edu/academics/undergraduate-programs/marketing/>. (<https://www.ivybusiness.iastate.edu/academics/undergraduate-programs/marketing/>)

Student Learning Outcomes

Upon graduation, undergraduate students majoring in Marketing will:

1. Be effective communicators.
2. Be effective collaborators.
3. Be problem solvers.
4. Understand business concepts.
5. Recognize ethical and legal responsibilities to organizations.

Curriculum:

Required and elective marketing major courses can be combined into two distinct tracks: marketing analytics, and marketing management.

NOTE: If you are interested in sales, the Marketing department offers an undergraduate certificate in Professional Sales. The Professional Sales Certificate has different required Marketing courses, and different electives that are available from departments around campus. Undergraduate Certificate in Professional Sales

Purpose

The certificate in professional sales is a course of study administered by the Department of Marketing in the Ivy College of Business. It is designed for all undergraduate majors who wish to enhance their degree and employment possibilities by adding expertise in professional selling.

The certificate program will equip students with knowledge and skills related to developing and managing mutually beneficial relationships with customers. The certificate program is built on a strong theoretical background but emphasizes applications and practice. The certificate provides students with an opportunity to learn about the ethical, technological, analytical, and global aspects of professional sales.

Learning Outcomes

After completing the certificate in professional sales, students will be able to:

- Identify and describe the steps in a relational selling process to create value and achieve customer satisfaction,
- Apply the sales technology, skills and knowledge to business problems,
- Enhance oral communication skills and basic business writing skills,
- Build a network and develop professional relationships through corporate participation in the sales program, and
- Enhance career management options by gaining a better understanding of sales as a career option.

Requirements

The certificate in professional sales requires the completion of at least 7 courses, totaling 21 credit hours. At least 12 credits should be taken at Iowa State University.

Required Courses (12 credits):

Graduate Programs

The Department of Marketing participates in the full-time and part-time Master of Business Administration (MBA) and the PhD in Business and Technology programs.

Master of Business Administration (MBA)

The MBA is a 48-credit, non-thesis, non-creative component curriculum. Thirty of the 48 credits are core courses and the remaining 18 are graduate electives. Within the MBA program, students may develop an area of specialization in marketing.

Student Learning Outcomes

Upon graduation, MBA students will:

1. Demonstrate effective communication skills.
2. Effectively lead and work in diverse teams.
3. Critically solve business problems.
4. Integrate ethical and global perspectives in decision making.

For more information about the MBA program with a specialization in Marketing, please visit: <https://www.ivybusiness.iastate.edu/academics/graduate-programs/ivy-mba/full-time-mba/>.

PhD in Business and Technology

The PhD in Business and Technology with a Marketing (MKT) specialization is a 74 credit (minimum) curriculum designed around several interrelated areas (i.e. foundational courses in the business disciplines, a major area of specialization, minor, and research methods) and the dissertation. The specialization focuses on marketing issues related to strategic decision-making, understanding consumer preferences and behaviors, and using data analytics to enhance theory, practice, and societal impact.

Student Learning Outcomes

Upon graduation, PhD students will be able to:

1. Understand and advance knowledge.
2. Create knowledge through original research.
3. Teach effectively in an institution of higher education.

For more information about the PhD program with a specialization in Marketing, please visit: <https://www.ivybusiness.iastate.edu/academics/phd-program/marketing/>. (<https://www.ivybusiness.iastate.edu/academics/phd-program/marketing/>)
